TORONTO'S RICH OFFERING

ONTARIO JOCKEY CLUB ANNOUNCES PROGRAM FOR ITS COMING SPRING MEETING.

Fourteen Stakes, With Toronto Cup, $5,000 Added.
as Topliner, to Be Decided During Seven Days'
Meeting—Minimum Purse Value $500.

Toronto, Ont., April 6.—In the stake offerings of the Canadian Racing Associations clubs the best has been kept till the last, and the announcement of the fixtures for the spring meeting of the Ontario Jockey Club, the oldest and leading organization, is the richest and most attractive of all the programs for the coming season in this country. The liberality of the Ontario Jockey Club has kept pace with its enterprise in deciding on the introduction of the pari-mutuel, and though the directors are practically quite in the dark as to the prospective revenue, by reason of that change, they have approached the question of prize money with apparently not the least misgiving as to its support by the public. There is no past experience to serve as a guide, but the club does not ask owners to assume any of the uncertainty.

The announcement is made by Secretary W. P. Fraser that eleven stakes will close May 1. To these the club adds $17,400, what is known as the guaranteed stake having no place on the Toronto program. The King's Plate, Breeders' and Maple Leaf Stakes, previously closed, have $6,250 added, so that there will be a total of $23,650 given from the club funds for stake events during the spring meeting. That means two stakes every day, with the entrance money all going back to the winners. In addition to the stakes there will be handicaps of $700 and $800, and no purse of less value than $500. Steeplechasers will be particularly catered to, with one cross-country race daily, and $7,200 given in the seven days exclusively for the jumpers.

One notable change in the conditions is that the Toronto Cup, the most valuable race to be run in Canada this year, will be a handicap, instead of a weight-for-age race as in the past. Under the new conditions such a horse as King James possibly may not have to carry as much as before, but his competitors will not be required to meet him on even terms. When Jack Atkin won the $10,000 Dominion Handicap at Fort Erie last year there was not a word of grumbling, for the "big train" and Sager and his stable companions had participated early in the racing, and added to the enjoyment of patrons throughout the meetings. The course taken with King James was quite different. For two years in succession Mr. Hildreth shipped him here from New York to run in one race and carry away the biggest purse of the meeting, which comprised the only appearance of the Hildreth stable in Canadian racing. The change is one that the club management feels will meet with the approval both of public and owners.

The eleven events which will close May 1 are as follows:

Toronto Cup, $5,000 added, handicap; for three-year-olds and upward; 1 1-8 miles. To be run May 24.

King Edward Hotel Gold Cup, $1,500 added; for three-year-olds and upward; weight for age; 1 1-4 miles. May 27.

Minto Selling Stakes, $1,000 added; for three-year-olds and upward; 1 1-16 miles. May 28.

Prince of Wales Handicap, $1,000 added; for three-year-olds and upward; 3-4 mile. May 29.

Liverpool Cup, $1,500 added; for three-year-olds and upward owned in Canada; weight for age; 1 1-16 miles. May 25.

William Hendrie Memorial Handicap, $1,000 added; for three-year-olds and upward foaled in Canada; 1 mile. May 27.

Woodstock Plate, $2,000 added; for three-year-olds; 1 1-8 miles. May 20.

Victoria Stakes, $1,200 added; for two-year-olds; 5-8 mile. May 24.

Coronation Stakes, $1,000 added; for two-year-olds foaled in Canada; 4 1-2 furlongs. May 22.

Woodbine Steeplechase, $1,500 added; for four-year-olds and upward; about 2 1-2 miles. May 24.

Street Railway Steeplechase Handicap, $1,200 added; four four-year-olds and upward; about 2 1-2 miles. May 27.

The daily card during the spring meeting will consist of seven races.

Report Received From Newmarket That Pietri Has Shown a Defect in His Wind.

According to the latest reports from Newmarket, Pietri, the winter favorite for this year's Epsom Derby, has developed a defect in his wind, which it is thought settles his chances in the classics. The colt is the property of Leopold de Rothschild, and what is most singular, is that St. Anton, a stable companion of Pietri, has been stricken with the same ailment. St. Anton has also a string of classic engagements, and as a two-year-old was ranked among the top notchers. It is claimed that the treacherous weather has been the cause of both turning out to be "roaders," for in these animals' pedigrees the least mention of any windy infirmity cannot be traced. After the animals went into winter quarters last November Pietri, which is by St. Frusquin out of Pie Powder, was rated as the best of the lot, and was the accepted winter favorite for the Derby. Not much betting takes place nowadays, for of late years so many animals have gone wrong between their two and three-year-old season that hardly anybody cares to take a chance until they get a glimpse of the horses out in the spring gallops.

Since the report that Pietri has been found to make noise in his gallops the wise ones around Newmarket Heath have been putting two and two together, and they have it now that it was the symptoms of this trouble that caused the colt to be scratched from the Dewhurst Plate last November. It was a windy day and the race had to be run in the teeth of a smart gale, a condition which would kill the chances of a horse having the least thickness of wind. There are others who say that all was not well with Pietri when he ran in the Middle Park Plate. In that race Pietri and Seaforth were giving six pounds to Borrow, owned by Harry Payne Whitney. The American beat the pair, which dead-beated by a neck, the finish being one of the very best of the juvenile events of last season. Close upon this trio was Lord Derby's King William, and he was only a length and a half away.

Along with Pietri he has been closely watched when at exercise recently and the critics say he has grown into a grand colt and has filled out in the body and where he was wanting as a two-year-old. As to whether he has gained in speed will not be known till the Two Thousand Guineas, which will be run on Wednesday, April 26, when there will also be a definite line on Pietri. In commenting on the report of the Pietri mishap "Kettledrum" has the following to say:

"The most that could be said against Pietri on the general run of his juvenile displays was his

JUDGE MURPHY'S EXPOSITION OF RACING IN FLORIDA

The Jacksonville Metropolis, one of Florida's most enterprising and influential dailies, recently devoted considerable of its space to an exposition of the advantages accruing to Jacksonville and the state of Florida from a race meeting such as that which recently closed at Moncrief Park, from the pen of Judge Joseph A. Murphy, who acted as presiding judge during the meeting referred to. The article ably sets forth the part that racing plays in the development of any community, and is reproduced in full, as follows:

"Conservative people throughout the State of Florida have taken the reins of government into their own hands and from this time on the Peninsular State promises to supplant Missouri as the 'Show Me State' of the Union. Recent elections, particularly the one in which state-wide prohibition hung in the balance, demonstrated the fact that from this time forward the voters of the state propose to look at all big civic propositions from an economic standpoint entirely. The time for stampeding the people of the state has passed forever and studied conservatism has become the slogan of the masses. They have learned to distinguish between the shrill of the bigot and the resounding voice of the people, and have discovered that the former is a withering chinook that stifles progress and advancement.

"The question of the perpetuation of racing at Moncrief Park will likely come before the Legislature at its coming session, and it might be well to look at the question in advance from every viewpoint, so that the poison of prejudice may not warp conservative judgment. While we propose to take the matter up from an economic standpoint largely, we realize that the people of Florida propose to look into the matter from every angle and realize that the perpetuity of racing will depend largely on the ability to convince the people of Florida that its advantages far outweigh its disadvantages, we propose to step right into the open.

There are a certain number of people who may look upon any obedience to pleasure as a yielding to his satanic majesty himself. These people would not listen to reason, and we pass them up as opponents unalterable and unbending. There are many others who out of sheer love for the horse and the sport in which it plays so great a part, would take off their coats and fight for its continuance. "It is the great mass of people who have no direct interest, many of them living in remote parts of the state, with no opportunity to get their information first hand, that this article is meant for. We would much have preferred that everyone could have seen Moncrief Park during its active days, so that they could judge for themselves, could have noted the class of people who gave it sanction by their presence, and could have seen the order and decorum maintained. It would have left an indelible impression of class on the mind of the spectator. It would have given the lie direct to the claim sometimes made that racing crowds are made up wholly of nondescripts and moral derelicts. Any citizen of the state that might have attended would have rubbed elbows with the best that Jacksonville has, augmented by the classiest people that the north and east can send, with their wives and daughters, men seeking in sunny Florida such cease from business as is necessary to men of big affairs. Any citizen of the state would have seen a high-class place of amusement to which he could have sent his wife and daughters unchaperoned with the same safety that he could to any theater. That was what Moncrief Park has been, that is what Moncrief Park of the future should be.

"If any citizen of the state doubts this statement there is not a paper in Jacksonville, nor any of its citizens who have given the subject personal attention that will not subscribe to this. If some undesirable have followed in the wake of racing, that is not the fault of the management. Every big amusement enterprise has its seamy side. There is not a city in Florida that would refuse a National Democratic convention. If some pickpockets follow in the wake of it the next Legislature would not legislate the Democratic party out of existence. The owners of Moncrief Park have, at their own expense, brought before the eyes of the north men skilled in the art of detecting crime and preventing it, men who have been schooled to remember the faces of the crooks. These men have co-operated with the local authorities in every way possible, and Jacksonville is acknowledged to be a most orderly city, nor has there been any increase in crime since the racing started.

"We realize that the great fight is to be made on the speculative end of racing. We know that the reformers will cry out that they do not want to kill the racing of which they are fond, but only the speculative end of it. That was what Governor Hughes of New York said, and then put a law on the statute books that no bet could be made liable for anything that might take place on the grounds. Thus Mr. Vanderbilt, in Europe, could be indicted if a bet happened to be made on the Sheephead Bay race track. If racing is to be given some betting is bound to be done, and the New York people did a wise thing in refusing to make liable for something they could not control. The same thing would obtain here. While there has been betting at Moncrief Park it has been done under proper regulation, with absolute protection for the public. There has been no soliciting of betting and one could go to the grounds and enjoy the racing without knowing there was any betting going on.

"It is a generally accepted theory that it is the abuse and not the use of most things that result in evil. It is also generally admitted that you cannot legislate people good. That was what the people of Florida said in no unmistakable manner when they voted on prohibition. That was what John Wesley, the father of Methodism, meant when he said that direct appeal to the conscience was the thing. If one enjoys a glass of wine at dinner tendency on occasions to show temper, although this could be regarded as a bad sign also in one of his youth having regard to the fact that his elder brother, Santo Strato, cut his racing career short owing to the very same reason. Pietri's first ebullition in this direction was when at the post prior to the Glenash Stakes. His connections had had the conviction all year that he was an uncommonly good horse and without an atom of vice, so that the spectacle of him trying to bolt out of the course at York was an unwelcome revelation. He won easily, however, having nothing to beat, and Maher, the one man who should know, avers that he also carried off the Champagne Stakes at Doncaster readily enough, notwithstanding that the margin in his favor was only a short head over the outsider, Wrinkler.

"In all probability Pietri had considerable reserve energy stored up, but the impression left on many minds as a result of that performance would, I think, be that the colt was not minded to draw on such reserve, that he won against his will and that in the hands of any one less proficient and who did not thoroughly understand his mount he would have shriveled up and been beaten. A suspicion also is left over that he did not second his jockey's calls nearly as heartily as he might have done in the Middle Park Plate, and it was a diplomatic move on the stable's part to withdraw him from the Dewhurst Plate, where in all probability another defeat would have been his fate, with the likelihood also of further detriment to his temper. A horse with defective wind could well have been excused defeat on the Middle Park Plate afternoon, so lusty was the breeze directly facing the runners, but at that time Pietri had an unquestioned bill of health, and until that is no concern of his neighbor. If one has a tobacco heart we have no right to pass a law that will take the soothing weed away from our brother. If one enjoys a horse and wants to bet on it, he would not as a result compel any one else to do so, nor has he the right to prevent another man from doing so if he chooses. More money is bet on a Presidential election every four years than all the race tracks in the States in the interim, yet no one has ever advocated the abolition of the right of suffrage. More money was bet on the world's baseball series last fall than on all the race tracks during the year, yet many of the reformers are already looking forward to this year's series.

"When a merchant buys his goods on time he is gambling. When one buys real estate and pays an equity on it he is gambling. When one takes out life insurance he is gambling. When one eats the best of the best, but parcels out he is certainly gambling. The man who bets $2 on a horse race is really the least of all.

"But let us get right down to the economic side of racing as applied to Jacksonville and see what it offers. The layman has really no conception of the magnitude of the racing proposition. Figures make one really dizzy when you get into them. The subjoined table, which is correct, will give an idea. Figuring 110 days of racing, with twenty Sundays: Keep for 1,000 horses $ 97,500 Five hundred men and boys, stable hands, 130,000 Two thousand visitors at $5 a day 1,000,000 Railroads 1,000,000 Street railroads, hacks, automobiles, etc. 150,000 Barber's 20,000 Cafes and restaurants 400,000 Spent with merchants, Christmas, etc. 1,500,000 Miscellaneous 500,000

Total $5,067,500

"People who come to the races pay cash for what they get, and they want the best. There is not the slightest doubt but that a lot of the trade has been diverted from California to Florida by the Moncrief meeting. But it is not only Jacksonville that has profited. Only a small percentage of the things consumed here are raised in this immediate neighborhood, and the interior of the state has also profited largely. The surplus of acres of grapefruit, oranges and other fruits raised in the interior, have been sent north and east as presents. Then, too, many of the men who have come here are owners of great estates in the north, and, having become enamored of Florida, are contemplating investing largely in real estate within her confines. No one will deny that the people of Florida can use the $5,000,000 or more of cash that Moncrief Park brings each winter. If the Jacksonville people pay part of the freight at Moncrief Park, it all comes back to them through the channels of trade. If the track has earned some money it must not be forgotten that the bulk of the stock is owned by local people, and the dividends will remain here for investment.

"There is another thing that should appeal to everyone throughout the state, viz., the amount of advertising the races give the climate of the state. The Associated Press has had a special representative here all winter, and special correspondents from all the great northern papers have spent the season here, and the name of Jacksonville has been daily in the great news dispensers of the country. What New Orleans and other southern cities have spent thousands for, the people of Florida have had from Moncrief Park for nothing. If the president of any Board of Trade in the state would send wires to all the northern papers that the weather was beautiful, the blue pencil of the telegraph editors would consign the telegrams to oblivion. When a correspondent sends out a story that 'summerlike weather prevailed for the races today,' it passes unchallenged. Will anyone deny that such a thing spread out on one's breakfast in the ice-choked north is not a temptation for men of leisure to hike out for the sunny south. It is a conservative estimate that 3,000,000 words a day are published about Jacksonville and its racing in the great dailies of the country.

"If the plans of the local management to put in a big Fair Association are allowed to mature, not only will Jacksonville take on new splendor, but the whole state will have the opportunity to show its wares to all who reach the gateway. No state in the Union is growing so fast from an agricultural viewpoint as Florida, and no state in the Union at the present time has such inadequate means to show its products to the world. Even the pessimists and purists must admit that exploitation of its wonderful productive powers is the proper method for expansion, and Moncrief Park is the proper theater for this.

"With the advancement of agriculture it is necessary to improve the breed of horses to work the soil properly. The management has been at work at this for two years and has distributed twenty-five stallions throughout the state to cross with cold-blooded mares. These stallions are drawn from the finest thoroughbred families in the world, and the cross with the farmers' mares makes an ideal work horse.

"Moncrief Park has already done much for Florida, but its possibilities for good are almost unlimited. The above article is not a fanciful pen picture, but an array of cold facts that will stand the bluntness of type and will stand deep analysis from those who are willing to absorb it with open minds."

This week's report was issued concerning him he had been led to understand that he was one of the most tractable as well as one of the most improved horses at headquarters.

"These just named were Pietri's last three performances, however, so that it was quite natural that people should wish to see more of him before missing him seriously in connection with the Derby and now of course he is likely to drop a little more out of popular favor. Wind infirmity is not necessarily fatal to a horse's racing abilities, and as in the cases of Pietri and St. Anton there is no hereditary taint traceable, their trouble, which has doubtless been brought on by treacherous climate, may also yield anon to nature's kinder influence. Exceptions of complete recovery are rare.

"Brigantine had an illness in the latter part of her two-year-old season which left her an undoubted roarer. Yet, according to the late William Day, the disease diminished as her work increased in the following spring and eventually she became as sound as when she was foaled and won the Oaks and the Ascot Gold Cup. Wind troubles did not prevent Prince Charles from holding the title of champion of the T. Y. C., which was his proper distance, and to come down to much more recent times for an illustration as to how horses either rid themselves of the ailment or continue with racing abilities unimpaired in spite thereof, last year's second in the Grand National, Jerry M., carrying 175 pounds, once failed to pass a veterinary examination on the same score. Meantime we can only hope that Pietri as successfully tides over his trouble. Interest in the Derby would be materially discounted if the boy in yellow was prevented from entering the lists full sound and well."

FAVORITES TAKE PURSES

PUBLIC CHOICES ALL BUT SWEEP CARD AT JAMESTOWN TRACK.

Capsize Only Outsider to Score and Makes Excellent Showing for Initial Appearance of Season—
Racing Attended by One Run-up.

Norfolk, Va., April 6.—Favorites all but swept the card at the Jamestown Jockey Club's course this afternoon. Capsize, winner of the third race, was the only outsider to finish in front. The attendance was again good and those present appeared to feel more at ease than on the opening day. Five more layers strolled about the lawns and under the stand and there was a general air of activity on all sides. Form was well observed during the afternoon, but the fact that five of the public choices won, did not mean that any great amount was lost by the layers for the reason that percentages ran high. When matters loosen up, as they promise to from now on, there will be keener competition among the gentlemen displaying odds on their programs and more liberal quotations.

The racing was good today, although a majority of the winners had plenty to spare at the finish. Maxentius scored another victory for his new owner, Capt. P. M. Walker, when he beat an ordinary lot of youngsters in the opening dash. Hill Top helped to fatten Rosey Angarola's bank roll when she won the second race, Capsize's victory over a fair lot of sprinters in the feature race of the program was the only upset of the afternoon. It was the colt's first appearance for the season and he showed splendid courage in coming from behind to beat the speedy Mexicana and Watervale a couple of lengths. The first rump of the meeting came after The Monk won the closing dash, in which he was entered at $500. Sam Louis, owner of Golconda, which finished second, boosted the winner $300, but the horse was protected with the usual $5 advance.

Word comes from Jacksonville that Francis J. Pons has disposed of the stock he held in the Marlboro track and has withdrawn from all connection with that association. Mr. Pons will devote his attention in the future toward establishing a track at Charlestown, where a modern course will be built during the coming summer.

The Beverswyck Stable, after being delayed en route from Jacksonville, reached Norfolk this afternoon. J. S. Owanby also arrived with his string. Frank Frisbie disposed of the unreliable Effendi to William Woodward before leaving Jacksonville.

Jockey Reid arrived from Juarez and will ride for M. C. Pritchard here and at Baltimore. Among the newcomers seen at the course were A. W. Bryan, of Toronto, and "Kid" Weller, W. Beverley, Tom Woodford and Matt Corbett. James Fitzsimmons acted as one of the stewards today.

NOTABLE RACERS REACH CHURCHILL DOWNS.

Special Trains With Stars of Winter Meetings Come Simultaneously From Juarez and Florida.

Louisville, Ky., April 6.—What is conceded to be the greatest shipment of horses to arrive in one day at Louisville reached Churchill Downs today. Twelve of the cars came from the Jockey Club Juarez track in Mexico, and the other ten carloads came from Moncrief Park, Jacksonville. This shipment embraces practically all of the stars that have been racing at the winter meetings in Mexico and Florida. They consist of the two leading Derby candidates, Round the World and Governor Gray. Other horses in the shipment embrace the remarkable mare, Meadow, the speedy Follie Levy, the Texas-bred Derby candidate Sterlin, the great Jack Atkin, Barney Schreiber's Derby candidate Captain Carmody, the "bush" sprinter, John Griffin II., and such other useful racers as Agilitey, Sebago, Uncle Ben, Butter Ball, Bob Farley, Enfield, Bettie Sue, Taboo, War Jig, Polls, Charley Brown, Chapultepec, Jupiter Joe, Jeanne d'Arc, Lady Rankin, Lady Hughes, Mocker and others of good class. In fact, with but two exceptions, practically all the horses in this shipment are winners of creditable races.

Jockey M. McGee, who stood third on the list of winning jockeys at Juarez, and who will have the mount on Round the World in the Kentucky Derby at here, T. Grace and J. Clancy are in Chicago for a brief rest preparatory to beginning riding on the Kentucky circuit. There will be at Churchill Downs this spring many capable riders, in fact, the best lot in years.

Horsemen returning from Juarez say they understand that the negro who held up and fatally shot Joseph Burtschell is in the custody of the Mexican authorities. Mr. Burtschell had $2,000 in currency on his person when he was attacked, but this his assailant did not secure for the reason that he was frightened away quickly.

G. M. Odom, Will Shelley and jockey M. McGee arrived here ahead of the Juarez special. Max Hirsch continued on to New York, but his horses will be raced here.

The horses of L. P. Doerhoefer, which came from Jacksonville, will be trained by Shelby West. James Griffin is here with nine youngsters owned by J. S. McCullough. Griffin has retired to the stud that formerly useful racer, Czar.

ANOTHER FAVORABLE VIRGINIA DECISION.

Norfolk, Va., April 6.—The trial of William Hickey, a layer of odds, who was arrested at the Jamestown Jockey Club's course after the races last night on a charge of bookmaking, was held in the Tanner's Creek courthouse this evening and resulted in the dismissal of the charges against Hickey. Commonwealth's Attorney Richard Marshall, who was appointed by Governor Mann to prosecute the case, made a strong argument. The trial was held before Magistrate K. Q. Backus, who ruled that an occupant is a man who holds a position and maintains a place. Mr. Hickey did not use a stool and did not remain in any one place.

The result of today's trial appears to settle all doubt as to the status of betting under the Virginia law as conducted at the Jamestown Jockey Club's track and from now on the meeting should boom. Everything is being done by the management to run a high-class meeting and the law will be strictly observed. A large delegation of New Yorkers are looked for now that the matter of the standing of the layers has been settled. This is the second case that has been decided in the club's favor.

ONE LITTLE RACE FOR WHITNEY.

London, Eng., April 6.—At Newmarket today the Selling Plate of 100 sovereigns for two-year-olds was won by H. P. Whitney's chestnut filly, Jersey Belle, by Burgomaster—Yorkville Belle. Nine started and the race was over the last half mile of the Rous Course.

THINKS WELL OF ADAM BEDE.

New York, April 6.—Philip J. Dwyer is an American horseman who has an idea that John Madden's big colt, Adam Bede, recently shipped to Joe Cannon at Newmarket to be trained for the coming Epsom Derby, will make his mark on the other side. The president of the Brooklyn Jockey Club is well informed about Adam Bede. The big chestnut trained at his Gravesend race track last spring, and Mr. Dwyer saw him work many times with Thomas Monahan's Textile, a son of Indefatigable, which became one of the good two-year-olds of the year. Before Adam Bede bruised a foot galloping at Gravesend, just after his only start, he could go with Textile stride for stride. Mr. Dwyer coincides with Thomas Welsh in the opinion that Adam Bede would have figured as a first-class American two-year-old if he had not injured himself. "I'm not saying, of course," Mr. Dwyer remarked, "that Adam Bede will win the Derby. Winning the Epsom Derby is a big order. But I have an idea that if he keeps sound he will hold his end up in other races. He is a powerfully set up horse of good bone, with healthy legs and feet, and his action is smooth and easy. A colt of such size, with such action, should manage weight well, and carry his speed any distance."

Mr. Dwyer spent several months of last fall and winter in Europe, where he saw some racing. He does not subscribe to the theory that American horses are poorly treated by the handicappers in England.

"The American invaders of the island kingdom have to carry big weight in their first few races," the president of the Brooklyn Jockey Club says, "because they generally go over with a blare of trumpets. The American papers are full of stories of how good they are. These daring encomiums scare the handicappers and they put big weight on the invader for fear he may run on them. You can't blame them for it, either. When the form of the invader is established he is not asked to perform impossible feats in the line of packing weight."

NOTES OF THE TURF.

The Commercial Club of Chattanooga, Okla., is promoting a plan for establishing a race track at that place.

Ottawa, the Canadian capital, is to have a race track. The Ottawa Racing Association has been organized and will build a regulation mile course. It is hoped to open with a meeting next fall.

PENSACOLA OFFICIALS SUSPEND JOCKEY.

Pensacola, Fla., April 6.—The activity of the judges today in halting several alleged offenders before them had a beneficial effect and improved the tone of the racing. While no action other than the suspension of jockey Farrow for the meeting took place, the warning administered to others is expected to have a salutary effect.

Ideal weather helped to bring out a better attendance today. Speculation is steadily on the increase and whatever fear was formerly entertained that the meeting would not be carried out as per schedule has been dispelled.

The investigation of the inconsistent form of Chanate was dismissed this afternoon, the owner claiming he did not bet on the mare yesterday. She will be tabbed in future, and another acrobatic showing on her part will cause the stable's debarment from further racing here.

There was a plunge in the opener on Dry Dollar, but whatever changes he might have had went glimmering shortly after the start, when he was knocked out of contention.
